

Welcome to Chanel College

At Chanel College we encourage our students to have a positive mindset towards homework and study. We hope that you can work with us in developing a positive attitude by making homework and study an active learning experience rather than an isolated passive chore.

Homework and study should become part of your son's routine when they return home from school in the evening.

Some interesting facts:

I can't remember

70% of what we learn in a day is gone in 24 hours...unless we intend to remember it and practice it.

Exercise me!!

Memory is like a muscle the more you use it the stronger it gets.

Homework / Study

Your son will be studying at least 10 subjects in September. That is a lot of information to retain! Therefore your son will have either or both written and learning homework every night.

Location: You need to be sitting at a table to do homework and study, where there are no distractions. Turn off your phone!

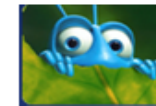

Prioritise: Use your journal to identify what written and learning homework you have and alternate between both so you don't get bored.

Time Management: Choose three nights per week for extra study. In your journal place a ✓ next to the nights that you know you can make time for it. Next to it write the three subjects you have chosen. Allow 30 minutes per subject.

Interpreting Questions

Box Underline Glance

When answering questions it is important to understand what is actually being asked. We recommend that a question should be broken down in the following way:

Example: Explain one reason why Manchester United are doing so badly in the Premier League this season?

Answering Questions

Point Explain Example

Answer:

1. Point: New Management

Explain: Alex Ferguson retired last year and David Moyes took over. It takes players time to get used to a new management style.

E.G: They won the premier league last year when Alex Ferguson was manager they are now in 7th place.
